Organization Participation Agreement

Each participant recognizes there is a risk beyond the duty of care of staff (guides and instructors) in outdoor hands-on learning (rafting etc.) held on the following schedule, and we ensure that participants and their guardians are notified that they will participate at their own risk.

We are also responsible for instructing all participants to comply with the staff's guidance and instructions, especially those regarding safety.

After making the above commitments, we will accept participation in hands-on learning on behalf of the participants and their guardians as representatives of participating organizations.

■ Notes on participation

1. Listen to the safety training (safety talk) and make the effort to understand it. In addition, we act based on the safety training.
2. Recognize the danger of unexpected dangers when working in natural conditions, and exercise caution at participants own risk, even when acting alone.
3. Recognize that the instructions of the staff during the experience are very important for ensuring safety. Listen carefully to the staff, and always act according to their instructions.
